

FURTHER READING

- American Psychological Association (2012). Guidelines for psychotherapy with lesbian, gay, and bisexual clients. American Psychologist, 67(1), 10–42. The APA guidelines for these client groups.
- Australian Psychological Society (2000). Ethical guidelines for psychological practice with lesbian, gay and bisexual clients. Melbourne: Australian Psychological Society. The APS guidelines for these client groups.
- British Psychological Society – Shaw, L., Butler, C., Langdridge, D., Gibson, S., Barker, M., Lenihan, P., Nair, R., Monson, J., & Richards, C. (2012). Guidelines for psychologists working therapeutically with sexual and gender minority clients. London: British Psychological Society. The BPS guidelines for these client groups.
- Butler, C., O'Donovan, A., & Shaw, E. (Eds.) (2009). Sex, sexuality and therapeutic practice: A manual for therapists and trainers. London: Routledge. A useful book considering sex and sexuality, especially with regard to giving training on them.
- das Nair, R., & Butler, C. (2012). Intersectionality, sexuality and psychological therapies: Working with lesbian, gay and bisexual diversity. Oxford: Wiley-Blackwell. A scholarly book considering the intersections with LGB sexualities, such as race, religion, age and gender.
- Denman, C. (2004). Sexuality. Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan. A scholarly overview of the complex field of sexuality.